HCLTech joins AI Verify Foundation to advance Responsible AI

SINGAPORE and NOIDA, India, Dec 01, 2025 — HCLTech, a leading global technology company, has joined the AI Verify Foundation, a non-profit open source software foundation that focuses on promoting trustworthy AI, reinforcing the company's commitment to Responsible AI practices.

The AI Verify Foundation brings together AI developers and deployers, testing and assurance service providers, technology solution providers, researchers, users and policymakers to build a global community to advance trustworthy AI. As a member, HCLTech will have the opportunity to support and contribute to the Foundation's mission.

HCLTech's Responsible AI tenets—including accountability, fairness, security, privacy, transparency, ethics and collaboration—are aligned with the AI Verify Testing Framework, which comprises 11 internationally recognized AI governance principles. This reflects HCLTech's commitment to developing and deploying AI solutions that are ethical, trustworthy, and beneficial to society.

"HCLTech's membership in the AI Verify Foundation underscores our commitment to helping enterprises navigate the opportunities and challenges of AI adoption responsibly as we shape together a future based on transparency, collaboration and trust," said Heather Domin, Vice President and Head of Office of Responsible AI and Governance, HCLTech.

HCLTech is a member of the Responsible AI Institute, has signed the EU AI Pact and has been named a Responsible AI Partner by Microsoft. The company has received the first AI Governance Verification Badge from the Responsible AI Institute and has been named one of the world's most ethical companies for two consecutive years.
