Yellow Pea Imports Stir Price War

Cheap imports crush mandi prices; govt under pressure to curb duty-free inflows as farmers lose ground

Shambhavi Anand

New Delhi: The Ministry of Consumer Affairs, Food & Public Distribution has written to the Ministry of Commerce advising it to restrict the duty-free import of yellow peas, said a senior official with knowledge of the matter.

Duty-free imports of yellow peas from countries such as Myanmar, Mozambique, Tanzania and Canada are dampening the mandi, or wholesale, prices of key pulses such as tur, urad, masoor and chana, as the commodity's landed cost is lesser than the minimum support price (MSP) and mandi prices of several other pulses. This is making imported yellow peas a preferred choice for snack manufacturers, hotels and restaurants and several low-income households, affecting the demand for, and therefore prices of, locally produced pulses.

The consumer affairs ministry, which monitors and controls the prices of essential commodities including pulses, has made its recommendation after agriculture minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan wrote to food minister Prahalad Joshi, requesting him to impose at least 50% duty on yellow pea imports to protect the interest of local farmers.

Continuous imports of yellow peas have brought down domestic prices of pulses and will discourage farmers to undertake area expansion of pulses, Chouhan wrote in his letter.

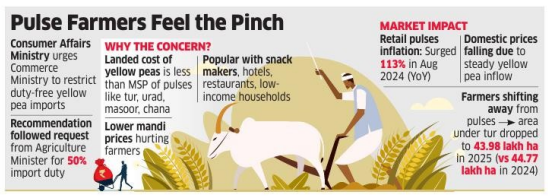
Several industry bodies and trader associations dealing in pulses have also been requesting the government to impose duty on yellow peas.

The government scrapped the import duty on yellow peas in December 2023 to help cool retail inflation in pulses, which had been at least in double digits since June 2023 on account of lower yield of key varieties such as chana, tur and urad for two consecutive years owing to adverse weather conditions.

Despite government efforts, inflation surged 113% in August 2024. Subsequently, the government extended the window for duty-free import of yellow peas multiple times, the latest being in May this year till March 31, 2026.

Meanwhile, the government also announced a six-year 'Mission for Aatmanirbharta (self-reliance) in Pulses' in the interim budget for 2025-26. The mission focuses on tur, urad and masoor, promising to procure 100% of the produce at MSP through the National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation of India (Nafed) and the National Cooperative Consumers' Federation of India.

During the ongoing kharif season, farmers have switched to maize from tur (pigeon peas) following the government's move to extend duty-free import of yellow peas. The area under tur has shrunk to about 4.40 million hectares as of August 22 this year from 4.48 million hectares a year earlier.



Russia's Oil Flood to China as Tariffs Crimp India Flows

India's crude imports down one-third from March peak; China's hits five-month high

Bloomberg

Russia's crude shipments rebounded, with China picking up the slack after US President Donald Trump's punitive tariffs on India choked exports to the south Asian nation.

Trump's doubling of US import tariffs on goods from India to 50%, imposed as punishment for its persistent buying of Russian oil, appears to be hitting the flow of Moscow's crude to the nation despite the defiance of the government in New Delhi.

The amount of crude on tankers heading to India stuck below 1.3 million barrels a day in the four-weeks to August 31, down by about one-third from the recent peak seen in March. Even if all the cargoes on ships yet to show a destination ends up in India, flows would still be down by about 550,000 barrels a day, or 28%, from the March peak.

Meanwhile, the amount of crude heading to China has moved in the opposite direction, reaching a five-month high of 1.28 million barrels a day.

Overall weekly crude shipments from Russian ports jumped by 770,000 barrels a day to a seven-week high of 3.49 million barrels, rebounding from an unusually low level during the previous seven days. The surge pulled up four-week average crude volumes, with seaborne cargoes averaging 3.15 million barrels a day in the period to August 31, tanker-tracking data compiled by Bloomberg show.

Shipments resumed from the Sakhalin 2 project off Russia's east coast after a four-week absence, likely caused by maintenance work. In the west, flows to the Baltic port of Ust-Luga, disrupted by drone-attack damage to a pumping station, were partly restored, with additional volumes diverted to Primorsk.

The latest uptick in Moscow's seaborne crude flows comes as Ukraine continues to hit Russian refineries with drones and missiles, potentially making more crude available for export.

Ukraine attacked at least eight Russian refineries last month, forcing more than 13% of country's active capacity offline. The disruptions has added pressure to crude-processing rates already crimped by longer-than-normal maintenance following a wave of drone attacks in the winter.

Work can take longer than expected due to sanctions-linked delays in delivering key equipment, Energy Minister Sergei Tsivilev said in July.

A separate attack on the Unecha pumping station, on the Druzhba pipeline system close to Russia's border with Belarus, halted crude deliveries to Hungary and Slovakia and hampered flows to the port of Ust-Luga on the Baltic coast. The Baltic Pipeline System 2, which carries Russian and Kazakh crude to the port, begins at Unecha.

The port is expected to operate at about half its normal capacity this month, with crude diverted to Primorsk and Novorossiysk on the Black Sea. Those diversions have already begun, with Primorsk handling a record-equaling 11 tankers last week.

Russian Seaborne Diesel, Gasoil Exports Fell 6% in Aug

Moscow: Russia's seaborne diesel and gasoil exports fell 6% on the month in August to about 3.1 million metric tons as damage from Ukrainian drone strikes hit production, data from market sources and LSEG showed.

Last month Ukraine intensified drone attacks on Russian oil facilities, targeting major refineries and oil depots mainly in southern and central Russia daily ahead of a meeting between U.S. President Donald Trump and Russian President Vladimir Putin.

As a result, at least 17% of Russia's oil processing capacity, or 1.1 million barrels per day, was shut down in August, according to Reuters' calculations.

Diesel and gasoil loadings from the Black Sea port of Novorossiisk fell last month by around 12% from July to 0.83 million tons, shipping data showed.

However, diesel exports via the Russian Baltic port of Primorsk, the country's biggest outlet for exports of ultra low-sulphur diesel (ULSD), rose in August 5.4% month-on-month to 1.33 million tons, as main fuel suppliers completed planned maintenance.

Turkey and Brazil remained the biggest importers of Russian diesel and gasoil last month, with Morocco, Tunisia and Senegal among the other main importers, according to LSEG data. Reuters

JSW Steel's Mongolia Coal Sourcing Halts

New Delhi: JSW Steel has put its plan to source coking coal from Mongolia on hold, citing significant logistical hurdles in transporting the material from the landlocked Central Asian nation to India, according to a top company executive on Tuesday.

"Mongolia was being explored as an alternative source, but there are a lot of logistics-related issues for transportation. As of now, it is not logistically feasible, and the plan is on hold," JSW Steel Joint Managing Director and Chief Executive Officer Jayant Acharya told PTI on the sidelines of the CII Global Sustainability Summit.
