Literature Live! The Mumbai Litfest Ends on High A Note with Prestigious Godrej Awards

Mumbai, The 16th edition of Literature Live! The Mumbai Litfest presented by Godrej Industries Group successfully concluded on Sunday, reaffirming the city's place as India's cultural and literary capital. Over three engaging days, the festival brought together more than 120 celebrated authors, thinkers, and artists from India and around the world.

Nadir Godrej, Chairperson and Managing Director, Godrej Industries Group, said, "Literature has the power to distill the essence of our times, to question, to comfort, and to connect. Through Literature Live! The Mumbai Litfest, we celebrate not just stories and ideas, but the spirit of curiosity that drives innovation and progress. Every edition strengthens our belief that creativity, whether in science, business, or art, is rooted in the courage to imagine differently. We're honoured to help sustain a platform that keeps that imagination alive."

The festival featured an exceptional lineup, including Nobel Laureate Venkji Ramakrishnan, Booker Prize winner Shehan Karunatilaka, former C.J. Dhananjay Chandra, Shashi Tharoor, Shobhaa De, Jerry Pinto, Luke Coutinho, Anindita Ghose, Swati Pandey, Paromita Vohra, Tarini Mohan. A special installation titled "Letters to the Future" offered a reflective space for attendees to share their hopes for the next generation of readers and writers. Themes such as diversity, inclusion and creativity, the evolution of Indian identity, and the power of narrative to drive social change dominated this year's conversations.

Amey Fernandes, Festival Co-Director, added, "A fabulous finish to the 16th year of the Mumbai Litfest. What began as a gathering of readers and writers 15 years ago has grown into a vibrant exchange of ideas that transcends genres and generations. With Godrej Industries as our partner in purpose, we continue to nurture this spirit, keeping literature relevant, inclusive, and deeply intertwined with the cultural pulse of our city, Mumbai and the world around us." Building on its commitment to inclusion, this year's Litfest took accessibility a step further with over 15 sessions interpreted in Indian Sign Language (ISL) by Access for All. The organization also conducted a zone-making workshop for children, aimed at nurturing empathy and creative expression. Additionally, a sensory-friendly tent at the Open-Air Plaza offered a soothing space for neurodivergent children and others, featuring tactile materials, soft seating, noise-cancelling aids, and support from trained facilitators.
