Pak woman challenges acquittal of Aseemanand, three others

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
CHANDIGARH, JULY 19

A PAKISTANI national, the daughter of one of the 68 people killed in the 2007 Samjhauta Express blast, on Friday filed an appeal before the Punjab and Haryana High Court challenging the acquittal of Swami Aseemanand and the other accused in the case.

Hafizabad resident Rahila Wakil, whose father Muhammad Wakil was killed in the blast, filed the appeal through a relative based in Uttar Pradesh. However, the plea has not been cleared by the High Court Registry yet for hearing due to certain technical objections.

"We have filed the appeal and it will soon come up for hearing," said advocate Momin Malik, who represents Wakil. Haryana Police, NIA and the Centre have been included as respondents in the case besides the accused, who stand acquitted at present.

Twelve years after the blast, a special NIA court in Panchkula on March 20 had acquitted Aseemanand, Lokesh Sharma, Kamal Chauhan and Rajinder Chaudhary. The court had observed that a "dastardly act of violence" remains unpunished for want of credible and admissible evidence. Neither the NIA, nor the Centre has filed any appeal in the case.

Pertinently, hours before the verdict, NIA special judge Jagdeep Singh had dismissed the plea filed by Vakil for the examination of several eyewitnesses from her country. The court had said it was apparent that the application "is nothing but an effort to seek publicity" and "an effort to get the matter prolonged..."

Scarlett death case: One sentenced to 10 yrs in jail

SMITA NAIR
PANAJI, JULY 19

THE BOMBAY High Court on Friday awarded ten years rigorous imprisonment to convict Samson D'Souza a day after he was found guilty of culpable homicide, drugging and sexually assaulting British teenager Scarlett Keeling at Goa's Anjuna beach in February 2008.

D'Souza and Placido Carvalho were both accused of the crime and an eight-year-long trial in a Goa Children's Court had culminated with both of them being acquitted.

On Wednesday, a bench of Justices R D Dhanuka and Prithviraj Chavan overturned the trial court order acquitting D'Souza and convicted him under sections 328 (causing hurt by means of poison), 354 (Assault or criminal force to woman with intent to outrage her modesty), 304 (ii) (culpable homicide not amounting to murder), 201 (destruction of evidence) of Indian Penal Code and Section 8(II) (grave sexual assault) of Goa Children's Act. The HC however, upheld the acquittal of Carvalho.

D'Souza broke down after the sentencing and applied for time to surrender and to appeal before the Supreme Court, which was objected to by the prosecution and rejected by the court.

During the trial, his lawyer, Shailendra Bhobe, pushed for leniency saying his client was the sole earning member of his family and that he had already served a six-and-a-half months in prison, during the course of the investigation. Bhobe added that his client had, "no other criminal record in the past or in the eleven years the trial was in progress or any other blemishes in his record". Bhobe also pleaded that the bench take the case as a "matter of commission" claiming that D'Souza's "nature of crime was not harsh or gruesome or cruel".

At this point, Justice Chavan said, "that part is over. Please only tell us the part where the quantum of sentence is to be decided."

Prosecution lawyer Ejaz Khan, in turn, said, "D'Souza was a waiter then. When he saw the young girl in such a state, he should have acted as an adult. Instead, the accused gave her drugs, morphine and liquor, and left her to die without informing anyone. He did not co-operate during the time of investigation. His conduct reflects his mindset. Under Section 8(II) we are asking for life imprisonment as it involves a child, and his act of sexually assaulting is grave..."

Lawyer Vikram Verma, who represented Scarlett's mother Fiona, was allowed to speak at this point despite the defence lawyer's objections. "The world over child abuse and paedophilia is taken very seriously," he told the bench. "In this case, reform is not possible," he reiterated.

After the judgment was pronounced, Fiona, speaking to a section of reporters said she was happy with the punishment but hoped "he stays inside for that long", said a BBC report.

Monsoon covers entire country four days late, to make comeback by July 25

ANJALI MARAR
PUNE, JULY 19

THE SOUTHWEST Monsoon covered the entire country on Friday, four days after its normal date of July 15, according to a statement from the Indian Meteorological Department (IMD).

Over the past week, rainfall has been concentrated near the Himalayan foothills, lashing the eastern and northeastern portions of the country. On the other hand, the central and southern regions have experienced very little rainfall so far. As a result, the overall rainfall for the season in the country so far has remained 18 per cent below normal, as on July 19. The presence of Cyclone Vayu impeded the movement of the monsoon this year causing a delay of two to three weeks before it hit Central India, according to the IMD. In turn, the window for kharif crop sowing in states like Kerala, Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh, Maharashtra and Madhya Pradesh drastically shortened.

"Due to this, the June rainfall ended remaining a 33 per cent deficit. But, the rainfall improved in July. Till July 19, the month's rainfall stands 3 per cent short of normal," the statement said.

According to officials at IMD, there may be a revival in the monsoon after July 25. Kerala and other places along the west coast have been placed on 'red alert' for the next three to four days, they said.

"During the last few days, the monsoon has shifted towards and has remained active along the foothills of the Himalayas. But, with a low pressure system likely to form in the Bay of Bengal and other atmospheric conditions building up, monsoon revival is expected around July 25," DS Pai, Head of Climate Research and Services at IMD, Pune, told The Indian Express.

A conducive situation for a revival is also being delayed because the El Nino has not completely waned yet, officials noted.

El Nino is an abnormal warming along the equator at the Pacific Ocean and is known to suppress the Indian summer monsoon.

KERALA ON RED ALERT; FISHERMEN 'MISSING'

Thiruvananthapuram: With the Southwest monsoon gathering strength in Kerala since Thursday, the Met department on Friday sounded a red alert in several districts for the next four days. Seven fishermen in South Kerala, who ventured into the sea on Wednesday, are reportedly missing. ENS
